Bella Wang

000-000-0000 | xxxx@ucsd.edu

Summary of Qualifications

-Number of years of coding experiencing since the start of high school, has the education background of Java, Python, Javascript and a little experience with C++

-Took two years of computer science courses in high school and two years of computer science courses in college. Have experience with computer skills (Excel, Powerpoint) , coding skills and some data science coding experience as well

-Achieve good grades in all courses and have some projects created on my own

-able to communicate in three languages including English, Chinese and French, which would help to communicate with different people about different projects.

Education

Currently attending the second year of College in University of California, San Diego in California with a major in Mathematics-Computer Science and working on minor in Data-science.

Work Experience

-Due to relatively limited education background, there is no official work experience for now

Volunteer Experience

-During high school, helped biology and chemistry department to organize data for different labs. For computer science department, helped teachers to organize the websites for class planning and weekly activity pages' updates

-Helped organize the promoting website for architecture designing in my fathers' companies during summer breaks

Professional projects Experience

-Developed a simplified AI face recognition project as a class project which helped checking in for dorm life

-Developed a simplified autograder project as a class project